

A year and a half ago, I married the man of my dreams. Two nights ago, our world was shattered. My husband, Michael Stewart, is the strongest, most dedicated and passionate person I know. Being a Phys-Ed teacher is Michael's calling. He could not think of being anything else. Since the accident, Michael and I have been overwhelmed by the outpouring of support, many from present and former students. He is an amazing coach and his baseball season started just one week ago. Now his team has to finish the season without him. He also coaches basketball and runs the Student Council. He is very concerned about his health and fitness and works out every single day, sometimes twice a day. On Wednesday morning, I witnessed people, driving a mini-van, taking all of that away from him. If you were one of those people, or if you know who those people are, you need to come forward. If you are the parent of one of these people, you know what your child has done. I understand that you want to protect your child, but Michael's parents wish they could have protected him. That is not ok. Please help us find the people responsible for hurting my husband.

Sincerely,

Trina Stewart
